"On fire that glows
With heat intense,
I turn the hose
Of common sense,
And out it goes
At small expense."

Secretary Kellogg's endorsement of the Democratic proposal for the arbitration of our dispute with Mexico indicates that his policy is as inflexible as a weather report.

Nothing in Sunset Cox's analysis of Congressional humor in "Why We Laugh" is as witty as Senator Ashurst's comparison of Tom Heflin's long-drawn-out speeches to the tail of Halley's comet, "which was reported to be 1,000,000 miles long and composed of no material substance whatever," and if the Alabamian's funny bone is as critical as it is creative, nobody will appreciate the joke any better.

It is heresy to say anything against the Monroe Doctrine, but 60 years have passed since the Empress Charlotte, who is dying in Brussels at the age of 86, saw her dream of empire vanish in the smoke of the firing squad which made an ordinary dead man out of Emperor Maximilian, and the Mexican problem we have with us still in one of its most aggravated forms. But for Mr. Monroe our Southern sister doubtless would be today filled with European colonists and a whole lot better neighbor.

State Department has made another terrible blunder in firing a budding diplomat with the talent for swiping a secret document, and who instead of losing his job should have been made an Ambassador at once.

Edward W. Browning, the well-known heavy sugar baby, will soon be the best dressed man in New York, as we note that he just got another new suit.

Senator Heflin kindles the blaze of bigotry and intolerance in the Senate and encounters one of our most efficient fire departments with "The house of common sense."

Speaking of bigotry, and we surely are beset by it on all sides, here's Ohio in an otherwise generally enlightened age proposing a puritanical blue law to prohibit all Sunday sports. As Cowper says:

"Religion does not censure or exclude Unnumbered pleasures, harmlessly pursued."

The army good-will fliers set sail from Costa Rica, and we hope their cargo of good will holds out.

That new comet reported in Denmark may be merely the tail of Heflin's masterpiece on the Federal Reserve banks, just getting over there.

Pennsylvania surrenders 2,000 ballot boxes, so thank goodness the Senate will soon have something else to look into.

The Seattle woman who offers a reward of $10,000 for a missing husband must be put down as the world's most reckless spendthrift.

Anybody who has ever been engaged once to Peggy Hopkins Joyce need never have to hire a press agent to break into the front page.

Looks as though the revolution in China would be the means of obtaining good jobs for missionaries in heathen America.

It remains to be seen whether the Senate, which so splendidly chastises the spirit of religious bigotry, has the courage to accept the credentials of a duly appointed Senator, who may be hurled out afterwards into utter darkness if tried and found wanting. There is more than one kind of intolerance, but we are generally against the other fellow's kind.

BALLOU IS DICTATOR OF EDUCATION BOARD, HOUSE GROUP HEARS

Court Will Not Appoint Person Not Under His Sway, Is Charge.

DEMAND FOR SCHOOL HEAD TO QUIT MADE

Baker, Once Citizens' Leader, Is Under Consideration for Graham's Post.

Charge that Dr. Frank W. Ballou, superintendent of schools, exercises a dictatorship over the board of education in that the District Supreme court justices will not consider any appointment to the board unless given assurance that he will work in harmony with the superintendent, coupled with the disclosure that Charles A. Baker, former president of the Federation of Citizens Associations, is under consideration to succeed E. C. Graham as board president, marked the hearing last night by the House District school subcommittee. A demand was made for Dr. Ballou's removal.

The District Public School association has recommended Spencer Gordon and Milton Strasburger for the place. It was planned to recommend Rear Admiral Joseph Strauss, retired, but he declined to permit consideration of his name.

It was developed at the hearing, however, that none of this association's recommendations or those of any other civic group having to do with schools has ever been accepted.

Representative Gilbert, of Kentucky, had an array of witnesses to testify that in 1925 a committee representing the District Congress of Parent-Teacher Associations was told by Chief Justice McCoy that no one "out of harmony," "not in accord with" or "antagonistic" to Dr. Ballou even would be considered for an appointment to the board. This committee was composed of Mrs. James W. Byler, Mrs. E. R. Kalmbach, Mrs. W. T. Bannerman, Mrs. Harriet F. Saunders and Henry Clarke. They testified substantially the same, but they varied on the exact term. Chief Justice McCoy was said to have used. Gilbert sought unsuccessfully to bring out the exact meaning of his statement.

Capt. Julius I. Peyster, who had been a "stormy petrel" on the board, was one of those recommended by the committee, the witnesses said, but the chief justice assured them he did not have a chance in the world. Capt. Peyster previously had said he knew he would not be appointed, so he had not applied for reappointment.

Yaden Decries Secrecy.

PLAN OF SMALLER ARMY IS VOTED DOWN IN HOUSE

Approves 118,750 Men Over Budget Bureau Proposal of 115,000.

FINAL BALLOT IS 66 TO 22 REED PLANS OPPOSITION

(By the Associated Press.)

Flatly rejecting the budget bureau recommendation for an army of 115,000 enlisted men, the House yesterday, by a vote of 66 to 22, approved maintenance of the present authorized strength of 118,750 men for the next fiscal year.

Action came with the defeat of an amendment by Representative LaGuardia (Republican), New York, designed to carry out the budget proposal, and after Representative Blanton (Democrat), Texas, had declared opposition to the President's program was "springing from a new regime growing here on the floor."

"This new combination wants to kick Coolidge out of the White House and put in some one else," Blanton said.

The initial move to override the budget's proposal was made by the House subcommittee which drafted the annual army appropriation bill.

One will be offered by Senator James A. Reed, of Missouri, and provide for reference of his credentials to the committee on privileges and elections, without administration of the oath of office.

The other will be offered by Senator Curtis, of Kansas, and provide that the oath be administered, the

Coolidge Asks Funds For Justices' Building

A definite move toward the erection of a building for the United States Supreme Court was made yesterday when the budget bureau submitted an estimate of $1,700,000 for a site for the building to be erected just east of the Capitol and north of the Congressional Library, between the library and the Methodist building on First street northeast.

Authorization for the building, the first of its own the court has ever had, was given at the last session of Congress. The authorization came after years of agitation for relief from the present crowded quarters in the Capitol.

CUBA-BOUND PLANE IS PICKED UP AT SEA

Craft of U. S. Scout Fleet Forced Down by Engine Trouble.

Norfolk, Va., Jan. 18 (By A. P.)—Advices arrived at the Hampton Roads naval air station today said one of the planes which left here yesterday for Charleston, S. C., on the first hop of their flight to Cuba, had been picked up by the tender Teal. The plane, apparently forced down by engine trouble, was the only one of the 23 constituting squadrons VS. and VT., of the scouting fleet, which failed to complete the flight.

Two planes of the VS. squadron, which failed to get away with the others yesterday, took off early this morning and expected to join the division at Charleston. In the planes were Lieut. Commander W. Masek, commander of the squadron; Lieut. J. G. Johnson, his pilot, and Lieut. G. W. Lehman, of the second plane.

Gifts Curtail Estate Of Daniel G. Reid

New York, Jan. 18 (By A. P.)—The "Tin Plate" fortune of Daniel G. Reid, whose estate was thought, at the time of his death January 17, 1925, to be between $40,000,000 and $50,000,000 was appraised today at $4,668,679 net. The gross was $5,007,602.

The unexpected diminution was due largely to provisions made for relatives and friends before his death. His daughter, Mrs. Rhea R. Topping, Greenwich, Conn., and her three children, were the chief beneficiaries. Mrs. Topping's portion was fixed at $10,000.

It is rumored that some of those opponents of the Lausanne treaty are so bitter that they won't even smoke Turkish cigarettes, or use Turkish towels at a Turkish bath.

CLAYTON'S REPLIES TO QUESTIONS HELD BAR TO SELECTION

Interrogation Framed by Utility Interests; Committee in Senate Hears.

INQUIRY INTO PHASE WILL BE CONDUCTED

Stand on Power Agreement and Traction Line Merger Reported Asked.

William McK. Clayton's answers to two questions presented by local public utility interests was the determining factor in his being ignored for appointment as people's counsel on the newly created public utilities commission. It was reported to the Senate District committee yesterday.

The committee, it was made known, will look into this phase, as well as to question the appointees as to whether they were similarly approached and just how far they went in the report to the committee.

Clayton's contention has been, in the first place, that the District should not be asked to value its own property. The present one is the company's own valuation, he says. Clayton also has contended that while a 7½ per cent return on the valuation, or the 7½ per cent in satisfaction, there should be a reasonable margin in the agreement by which all earnings above this figure would have to be returned rather than being used as the basis for improvements and low-grade construction next year. Under the present plan, he has contended, the public always is one lap behind.

Clayton was given little, if any, consideration for the office of people's counsel according to information reaching the committee. The Department of Justice is said not to have even looked into his qualifications, nor did any envoys of the President make inquiries about him.

Neither Attorney John W. Childress, the other appointee to the commission, was the original choice of the local Republican organization, it is learned on reliable authority. The organization, however, have unanimously endorsed Louis A. Dent, lawyer, now with the Department of Justice, for one of the places.

Aside from this organization endorsement, however, some of the members of the committee had preferred one of their choices had preceded Dent's formal endorsement to the White House. When the submitting of Dent's name was met with this individual chose the various influences in the organization are reported to have scattered and it became a case of every man for himself.

Childress to Be Questioned.

Children are to be questioned by the committee, it was made known, to determine what right, if any, he had sought the appointment as something to occupy his spare time. The law provides that full time be devoted to the commission.

Senator McKellar of Tennessee, who succeeded, was not really the influence behind his appointment. The senator seems rather to have been surprised when the appointment was made.

He is not so greatly acquainted with the public as he has his family, the members of which have been prominent in Tennessee jurisprudence. Senator McKellar expressed confidence yesterday, however, that Childress would make an excellent member of the commission.

Mallan is not without support in the Senate. The influence of his father-in-law, Frederick D. McKenna, attorney, is strong. Besides, Representative Graham, of the House Judiciary committee, is understood to have indorsed him.

The opposition to the manner of making local appointments has caused the Senate District committee to be in no hurry to make a selection. As far as no date has been set for another hearing on Commissioners Dougherty and Taliaferro. Their appointments are in the hands of a subcommittee headed by Senator Wesley L. Jones, of Washington. The senator has not been able to agree with Senator King, of Utah, upon a date for further action.

MAYO DENOUNCES GLAND OPERATIONS TO REGENERATE OLD

Protection of Health Needed in Youth, He Tells Surgeons' Meeting.

DOCTOR ALSO WARNS AGAINST FAST LIVING

Believes Yearly Examination Is Best Means of Curbing All Disease.

Glandular operations performed to regenerate the old and those exhausted from life's excesses are the "bunk," Dr. Charles H. Mayo, world famous surgeon, declared last night at the public health meeting held in the auditorium of the Medical Society building, 1718 M street northwest, under auspices of the American College of Surgeons.

The only way to grow old gracefully is to protect your health during youth, Dr. Mayo declared. Two-thirds of the old people are old as an inheritance from dead living parents he said. By present rates we are all ten years to our life, Dr. Mayo said.

Dr. Mayo and other famous surgeons addressed more than 3,000 persons who attended the meetings held in the Mayflower hotel and in the Medical Society building.

"Man's struggle today is not for existence but for luxuries, and his methods for securing them are often criminal," Mr. Mayo asserted. "Most of our youths of today burn out their engines in a few years."

So to live long, Dr. Mayo said, adding, however, that "it is better to break down in old age like a one-horse chaise than to live on to old age as many do live beyond the life of their brain—a sad spectacle."

Lick Girth Control.

Many persons never reach an old age, Dr. Mayo said, adding that the fat ones die off through lack of girth control. The best way to live long is to elect to the American College of Surgeons; Dr. Allen Craig, associate director; Dr. Franklin H. Martin, director-general of the American Hospital Association, and Dr. John C. Polak, Commissioner Dougherty made the address of welcome. Dr. Charles Stanley White of Washington, president.

Dr. Mayo said he is sorry if you must, but do things moderately and intelligently if you care to join the Methusaleh club and live to be 100, is the advice of Dr. Mayo, to the "jazz" generation. To the "adults" he said, "out with the girth."

Capt. Peyer challenged the qualifications of Commissioner Taliaferro, testifying that he was not qualified to represent the Senate District committee that Taliaferro's "approved" biography is an invention of the "Who's Who" showed him as having maintained a voting residence in Virginia for the last three years. Taliaferro is an resident in the "Who's Who," but this same authority lists a local newspaper editor as having been married at the age of 10, and that the present form of government for the District be retained, were made by the Kalorama citizens association convening in St. Margaret's parish church, Georgetown, and California Avenue, last night. The recommendation of Commissioner J. Franklin Bell also was recommended in a resolution adopted.

Matters relative to allowing left turnpike when officers are controlling the traffic, and relative to the "inequality of the state laws" and the reassessing of property without notifying the property owner were referred to the supreme court justices, expressing the opinion that they tried to act in the best interests of the people, but Gilbert and Representative Gasque, of South Carolina, and Representative Steigman, of Connecticut, both Yaden and Peyer declared the present board and system are unsatisfactory, Yaden saying they are unsatisfactory to 90 per cent of the people.

Representative Hammer discussed the new utility commission appointments, asserting he had been told the appointment was still open.

Yearly Examinations Urged.

Yearly examinations are the best check on disease and degeneration, Dr. Mayo believes. Only by this means can be prevented the hundreds of thousands of breakdowns that are certain to come, he added. Instead of examinations, many persons wait until they see the doctor. Dr. Mayo stated, whereas, he added, if they were examined regularly, the doctor would have a comparatively easy job in checking disorders, they said.

The surgeons attending the sectional meeting of the American College of Surgeons watched local physicians perform delicate operations at three local hospitals yesterday.

Operations attending the sectional meeting of the American College of Surgeons were held in the auditorium of the District Medical Society building at 1718 M street northwest. Hospital standardization was discussed.

Northeast Auxiliary Elects Mrs. Shulman

Mrs. Anne Shulman was elected president of the Northeast Ladies' auxiliary at the first meeting of the organization last night in the Columbia Congregational church, Eighth and I streets. Miss Eva Chidkai was elected vice-president, Mrs. E. L. Calon, secretary, and Mrs. F. Levine, financial secretary.

Miss Edna Voronoff, organizer of the first Girl Scout troop of Washington, urged the mothers of the city to come forward with Sunday school money and send their children to Sunday school, and it is vital that its religious training is not neglected, she asserted.

Woman Seriously Ill From Poison Effects

Suffering from poison, Mrs. Julia Shook, 33 years old, apartment 402, The Argyle apartments, Seventeenth and Mount Pleasant streets northwest, was taken to the hospital last night in a stuporous condition. She is believed to have swallowed three tablets of a virulent poison.

Mrs. Shook and her husband invited guests to dinner last night, the husband told police. When the husband came home with the guests his wife was missing. Later he said his wife was in another apartment and was ill. When the husband went to the other apartment to take her to their room he found that she had taken the poison, he told police.

Motorman Gets Auto Numbers in Robbery

The thoughtfulness of Motorman Albert D. Hunter, 37 years old, of 514½ M street northeast, to take the license number of an automobile parked under suspicion of having been stolen, may result in the capture of the four white men who held up and robbed Tony Hamaty, proprietor of a grocery store at 1500 East Capitol street, of between $300 and $350 about 11:30 o'clock last night.

Hunter was preparing to turn his car in at the East Capitol service station, Washington Railway & Electric Co., when he noticed a car parked in front of the store, with lights out and motor running. When three young men ran from the store and jumped into the man's car, Hunter took out the license number. The car sped away without lights. Hamaty was alone in the store when the holdup men entered. One watched the door, another held him up with a pistol and a third man robbed the cash register.

Two Apartments Robbed.

Two apartments at 2109 F street northwest were entered by an unidentified man last night, who stole $5 from the apartment of Mrs. Anna Reynolds Walbridge, 311½ F street, and Miss Walbridge Johnson, 311½ F street. Miss Johnson was awakened by a noise made by the thief, who fled when she screamed.

succeed Graham, whose resignation was impending. Yaden said he reported on Baker and then it occurred to him that publicity should be given to the fact that a board change was imminent.

Had it not been for his letter to Representative Norton, of New Jersey, and other members of the committee, it was pointed out, it would not have been generally known that Graham was resigning until the announcement was made of his secretly selected successor. This always has been the procedure in the past, it was testified.

Representative Frank R. Reid, chairman of the subcommittee, wanted to know what good it would do to know of these impending changes inasmuch as the recommendations of citizens' bodies were not accepted by the appointive powers, as witness recent local appointments. Yaden insisted there was some satisfaction in airing them, anyhow.

Capt. Peyer declared Mr. Ballou, a spectator at the meeting, was to be removed from office. The Board of Trade dominates the board appointments, he said, the same group which does not want any changes in the local form of government but which wants national suffrage.

Capt. Peyer declared the "Webster" pointees know only "enough to drive automobiles and keep out of the way of street cars."

Petworth System of Tax Assessment Denounced

The present system of tax assessment is not being conducted by the Petworth Citizens Association at a meeting last night at Joppa Lodge Temple, 4209 Ninth street northwest.

Following charges by Charles J. Stengle, chairman of the Petworth Citizens Association, that a ring of real estate men who inflate the value of property and collect high taxes, is responsible for the tax assessment system in Petworth.

Stengle gave members of the association the motive was "political and commercial." Subsequently, he testified that estimates for tax collections, including those for new buildings and grounds, were dealt with by the board in closed session in violation of the law.

"Those estimates should be drawn up in public so that somebody else can run out and buy up all the real estate," he said. "The board does not develop this 'motive clew' further, however, Gilbert, declaring he would show his motive with the committee which visited Chief Justice McHugh. "My motive apparently is to keep Dr. Ballou as superintendent, to keep him in office and to give him a raise," he said.

Capt. Peyer challenged the qualifications of Commissioner Taliaferro, testifying that he was not qualified to represent the Senate District committee that Taliaferro's "approved" biography is an invention in the "Who's Who," but this same authority lists a local newspaper editor as having been married at the age of 10,

Not Up to the Standard.

The committee found, Mr. Tufts said, that the public schools, educational institutions, framing of charters and the awarding of degrees in this city are not up to standard.

Institutions not able to qualify in cities where the requirements are more rigid, he said, are taking advantage of the situation. Washington's population, 227,880 in the last census, would reach the 1,000,000 mark "before long." The fact that every large organization in the country, he said, either maintains a headquarters here or is contemplating one helps substantiate this suggestion.

Brig. Gen. Anton Stephan, chairman of the committee on police, fire protection and public safety, urged the chamber to make every effort to improve the equipment of the Engineering Commissioner Bell at the expiration of his present term.

Degrees awarded by some schools in Washington countries are "laughing stock" in foreign lands, William O. Tufts, chairman of the committee on universities, colleges and private schools, declared in his annual report.

Income Tax Liens Are First, Federal Attorney Tells Former Lita Gray.

Hollywood, Calif., Jan. 18.—Charlie Chaplin struck back today. Attorneys launched his legal fight to defend his name and wealth from his suing wife and effected a temporary lifting of the receivership upon his property.

Mrs. Lita Gray Chaplin received a second blow in the announcement from United States Attorney Samuel McNab, that the government considers its income tax liens of $1,073,721 as a prior claim on monies located, and that Mrs. Chaplin's $18,140 temporary alimony continues.

The comedian's wife suffered a third setback in the inventory of three safes, two of them in the Chaplin studio and one in her husband's room in the Beverly Hills mansion which she quitted last November 30. The inventory, hastily conducted by Herman Spitzel and his attorney, was taken at the instance of the court prior to their scheduled dismissal tomorrow, disclosed little except copies of some old film books of

POLITICS SET ASIDE AS MRS. FERGUSON SURRENDERS POST

Dan Moody Assumes Duties
as Governor of Texas
Before Big Crowd.

WOMAN EXECUTIVE ASKS SUPPORT FOR SUCCESSOR

"Ma," in Good Spirits, Says
She Is Glad to Leave
Responsibilities.

Austin, Tex., Jan. 18 (By A. P.)—Animosities and the bitterness of political strife were buried for the moment here today when Dan Moody, youthful standard-bearer of Texas Democracy, was inaugurated governor, succeeding Miriam A. Ferguson, the State's first woman executive. The 33-year-old Moody took up the governorship from the hands of Mrs. Ferguson, a grandmother, before a vast crowd, said to have been the largest gathering in Texas history.

The new governor, a "successful camouflager," Mr. Roosevelt described what he said were three of the executive's "favorite tricks."

The first, he said, was to advocate beneficial legislation, knowing that the public leaders would then tell him it would have to block it because it was not practical. In this way he becomes a "friend of the downtrodden."

"Again," said Mr. Roosevelt, "the governor would block good legislation with the suggestion for financial aid, if they are blamed for that; if they do pass it they are blamed for the taxes necessary to finance it, and the governor gets all the credit."

The third "trick" was described as campaigning for low issues, over which no one had control.

Representatives Berger, Wisconsin, and Lowder, Missouri, criticized and Representative Hudspeth, of Texas, defended administration's Central American policy.

Payment for Meals Asked by Legislators

Special to The Washington Post
Annapolis, Md., Jan. 18 (Speaker E. B. Lee)—In the house of delegates here, today forestalled an effort of several members to have the State charged with an expense item of $50 for each member for meals and other expenses in addition to the regular salary of $6 per diem.

A resolution to that effect was offered by Delegate John E. Bardoff (Republican), Charles county. Several other delegates attempted to force a discussion on the item, but Speaker Lee blocked the move by referring it to the committee on rules. He declared the measure would mean a total of $11,700 expenses to the State, and that there were no available funds for such purpose.

Moody in a brief speech said the people "commission us to place their government upon a plane which will restore public confidence in existing reforms and receive the respect of all men."

"We are expected to keep our feet in the path of justice, redeem the right and duty of the people to demand exemplify the high standards of public service which they expect and demand."

Mrs. Ferguson seemed in good spirits as she left office and said to acquaintances: "I'm sitting on top of the world." She expressed gratification at being relieved of the responsibilities of office.

The Ferguson family expects to remain in Austin for a time, having taken quarters in a hotel. Proclamations filed in the secretary of state's office today showed that during the last four days she was governor Miriam A. Ferguson granted approximately 304 clemency acts, boosting her total for the year to approximately 3,695.

For the past four days bills were employed night and day in writing the proclamations. The full pardons will approximate 1,350.

Sailor's False Teeth
Cause Radio Aid Call

Boston, Jan. 18 (By A. P.)—Two false teeth in a seaman's throat led to a radio call for help from the British steamer Zimorodok on January 12. The steamer Thuringia of the Hamburg-American Line answered the call and arrived here today with the seaman aboard. He was taken to a hospital.

The Zimorodok left Philadelphia January 3 for Hamburg. During night of January 11, Eric Jonson, a Swedish sailor, awoke to find two of his false teeth had dropped from their pines and lost them in his throat. The steamer flashed a radio call for help. The Thuringia picked up the message but due to bad weather was unable to come alongside until afternoon.

The statement of the State Department declared that its investigation "discovered that one of its employees who was a candidate for the examination, Walter A. Miller, and who took the examination, had illicitly acquired a false affidavit of proof of the examination sheet and had copied them into fully approved test and gave these to certain unauthorized persons. Mr. Miller has confessed this action."

"The case of Mr. Miller will be referred to the Attorney General of the State Department," added, but the Department of Justice refrained from any comment. In fact, officials there professed the most dense ignorance of the whole question and declared they could not possibly forecast just how or through what law, if any, Miller might be prosecuted.

Miller has not been home since early Saturday night. A special agent of the State Department, who was on duty in Gettysburg yesterday, said he was still there waiting for the return of Miller. Because of his highly nervous condition, his mother has been asked to come to Washington. She is expected here shortly.

It is truly astonishing how quickly facts, particularly through every air passage of the country, spread and loosen and raise the phlegm, soothes and heals the membranes, and gradually but surely the annoying throat tickle and dredged cough disappear entirely. Thousands of housewives have found how to save two-thirds of the money usually spent for cough preparations, by using this well-known old recipe for making cough syrup. If you prefer, use clarified honey, instead of sugar syrup. Either way, it tastes good, keeps perfectly, and lasts a family a long time.

KELLOGG INDORSES RESOLUTION FOR ARBITRATION WITH MEXICO

criticized. If it makes a little show of earnestness, somebody at once declares there is going to be war.

"Mr. President, there is not going to be any war with Mexico unless Mexico wages that war by violating the rights of the United States of America and I do not believe that any man connected with the administration has the slightest notion of engaging in a war because of any religious difficulties in Mexico."

Refers to Religious Situation

America, looks on the religious persecutions in Mexico with alarm. Senator Reed said, referring to the gross and brutal mistreatment to which not only Catholics but representatives of other religious denominations in Mexico had been subjected. But he added, "There was no war in any one's mind of going to war over the religious question and he pointed out that Catholic leaders themselves were opposed to any such course."

Senator Reed informed of the latter phase of Reed's speech. Both these senators said the fact that they were Catholics did not prompt them to favor a rupture with Mexico and that they were opposed to any such course.

"Arbitration rather than force" should be the basis for settlement of the Nicaraguan dispute and the controversy over Mexican oil and land laws, the resolutions declare.

The central conference of American rabbis, meeting jointly with the union, took cognizance today of reports that the coming Christian conference in Bonn would consider the question of the conversion of Jews.

Protecting against any such "attempt at proselytizing," the central conference directed a message to the Federal Council of Good Will, New York, of which it is a member, calling upon its members to support the good will covenant:

"Because of our mutual respect for the integrity of each other's religion and our desire that each faith shall enjoy the fullest opportunity to express its convictions, we commit ourselves to a non-proselytizing purpose."

The Federal council was requested to represent that the American compact for amicable relations between Jews and Christians would be honored by any efforts to convert Jews.

Provisions for rabbis who have grown old in service were provided in a resolution adopted by the union setting aside $300,000 for that purpose. A gift of $160,000 to the pension fund from the late Jacob Schiff, of New York, was also announced.

THE SMITH CASE.

Frank L. Smith, appointed United States senator from Illinois by the governor of that State, to succeed William B. McKinley, deceased, will present his credentials today and signify his readiness to take the oath of office. Resolutions are pending or will be presented providing that the credentials shall not be received; that the oath shall not be administered until a committee can inquire into Mr. Smith's right to his seat; and that the oath shall be administered, after which Mr. Smith's right to remain shall be determined.

The questions raised by senators in regard to Mr. Smith are of prime importance, not only as affecting Illinois but as affecting the authority of the Senate to turn from its doors any person who, notwithstanding the validity of his credentials, is deemed by the Senate unfit to take a seat.

In Mr. Smith's case it is alleged that while a candidate for the Senate, and while he was still chairman of the Illinois public service commission, he accepted campaign contributions from a "traction magnate" whose corporations were under the jurisdiction of the commission. It is alleged that Mr. Smith not only violated an Illinois statute, but that his action demonstrated his unfitness to share in the making of laws. His opponents hold that the Senate, and not the State of Illinois, is the judge of the qualifications of senators, and that the Senate has authority to pass upon moral and personal qualifications as well as questions relating to the validity of appointment or election. This contention is hotly denied by partisans of Mr. Smith, who insist that the voters of Illinois are the sole judges of the moral fitness of candidates, and that the governor of Illinois has full authority to appoint any one at his pleasure to fill a vacancy in the Senate. They further insist that, if the Senate's authority to pass upon qualifications be enlarged to include questions of moral fitness, a State may be deprived of its equal representation in the Senate.

Thus the Smith case raises a fundamental constitutional question. Many senators are in doubt, and they may well be in doubt, as to how they shall vote if required to decide whether or not Mr. Smith shall be denied the oath of office.

The precedents established by the Senate, and the common sense view of the problem, tend to the conclusion that no man bearing valid credentials should be prevented from taking the oath of office, since this would be a challenge of the right of a State to equal representation in the Senate; but that if the right of a validly appointed or elected senator to remain in the Senate is challenged on other grounds, the Senate has authority to inquire into the question and decide it.

PLUMBERS' LICENSES.

The District corporation counsel recently proposed that the commissioners be given the power to revoke the license of a master plumber found guilty of violating the District sanitary code. The present code makes no provision for revocation of permits, and the Court of Appeals has ruled that where such power is not specifically granted, the permit becomes the property of the holder and may not be withdrawn except upon proof that fraud was used in obtaining it.

The sanitary code is a most important piece of legislation. The health of the entire community depends to a great extent upon a pure supply of water and upon the proper disposal of all waste matter. Water supply pipes must be so constructed that there is no danger of contamination. Waste disposal pipes must be so designed and laid that the sewage is carried away quickly and with no possibility of leakage. Master plumbers are well aware of these facts, and have been purchasing advertising space with their own funds to pass the knowledge on to the public.

It would seem that there is little actual need of such legislation at the present time, but that it would be a handy statute to have on the books. The Master Plumbers association, which specifies correct practices, is a fine policeman of the industry. On the other hand, the time may come when some unscrupulous individual may take advantage of an opportunity to make a few extra cents profit by improper practice and construction, thus placing the health of innocent persons in jeopardy. The Master Plumbers association should get behind the measure and bend every effort to have it enacted into law.

EATING UP FORESTS.

The forestry service recently offered to the highest bidder two tracts of Alaskan timber, each embracing more than 5,000,000,000 board feet of pulpwood, and each sale requiring the establishment of a 200 to 500 ton paper mill to utilize the product. The tracts have been placed on the market to assist in the establishment of an Alaskan paper manufacturing industry, to relieve to some extent the necessity of American users buying from Canadian and Newfoundland mills.

Conversion of such extensive timber resources emphasizes impressively the entire problem of forest conservation. There is, of course, no tendency to criticize forest utilization, or conversion of this natural resource into commercial products. Utilization of forest resources differs from use of other resources, however, in that when the forests are drawn upon they may be replaced. Timber lands are similar to farm lands—they may be cut over, replanted either artificially or naturally, and cropped when the growth ripens. Too frequently, however, this system is not followed.

No trouble can come if Mexico avoids willful aggression against the people and government of the United States.

get behind their government and assure it of their support if it should be required to defend the life and property of American citizens. That is the only honorable, peaceful, American policy that can be pursued.

The United States, with the largest per capita lumber consumption of all industrial nations, consumes annually more than a third of all the wood used in the world. It consumes each year more timber than it grows, the deficit being drawn from virgin timber, which is reduced annually 2½ per cent.

The problem of conservation narrows down to one of inaugurating a "sustained yield practice" which presupposes proper reforestation by private owners. There seems to be a growing realization of the fact among timber operators. Since 1922, for instance, about 70 per cent of the lumber production of the entire redwood region in California has been under such practice. In Oregon and Washington forestry work is going forward, and the New York State conservation department recently reported that it had on file already orders for close to 9,000,000 trees to be used for reforestation this spring. The division of wood utilization of the Department of Commerce is pointing the way to conservation through slightly different methods by attempting to impress upon builders the savings incidental to making use of short length lumber wherever possible.

The surface has hardly been scratched, however, for lumbermen are still cutting into virgin timber at a great rate, and in most cases making no attempt at replacement. The government, in offering pulpwood timber tracts for sale in Alaska, would do well to specify also that proper reforestation practice be inaugurated.

The surface has hardly been scratched, however, for lumbermen are still cutting into virgin timber at a great rate, and in most cases making no attempt at replacement. The government, in offering pulpwood timber tracts for sale in Alaska, would do well to specify also that proper reforestation practice be inaugurated.

This largest branch of the Federal service, in point of civilian personnel, has been the despair of those seeking to reduce the size of the service. For four years there has been necessary to take care of the increased volume of business and that is all there has been to it, notwithstanding all economy edits. Notable economies have been made in the postal service, the vital service, but the size of the personnel apparently can not be shrunk if the service is to be maintained adequately.

Not so, however, with other branches of the service. For instance, take the river and harbor work often mentioned as being congressional critics but in reality embracing such useful work as flood control on the Mississippi and other rivers. During the coming fiscal year the world will give employment to 18,260, fine workers, compared with about 18,585 (estimated) during the present fiscal year and 16,071 last year. Salaries next year will run to nearly $26,300,000 as compared with about $25,000,000 last year and $26,700,000 during the present year.

Prisons Need Increase.

Every Federal prison apparently will require a slightly larger force of employees next year than this or last. At Leavenworth the number of workers next year is put down in the budget figures at 1,361, as compared with 1,350 last year. At Atlanta, 1,350—this year, 1,350 and last year. At McNeil Island, Wash., the number for next year is put at 51; for last year at 45 and this year at 46.

The Federal institution for women at Alderson, W. Va., will increase by 66 employees next year as against 47 this year, and the Industrial Reformatory at Clacton, O., by 72 as against 66. The National Training School for Boys at Washington, D. C., is down for 1928 from 2,000 to 1,950. The President Roosevelt from Bremen, due at pier 4, Hoboken, Wednesday.

INDUSTRIALS STEADIED BY RAIL AND OIL BUYING

WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 18, 1927.

Market Closes Somewhat Unsettled—Lehigh Remains at High Level.

MOTORS HOLD UP WELL

Special to The Washington Post.

New York, Jan. 18.—Good buying among the rails and oils had a steady effect on the industrials, which were under pressure from the opening of the stock market today. Trading was active, the turnover exceeding 1,800,000 shares, but there were many cross-currents and independent bulges and dips here and there throughout the list.

In the last hour there was a tendency to sell rails and oils and buy some of the industrials, which were weak yesterday and in the early session today.

The result was an uncertain market at the close, the traders for the decline having won the day by a hair of things, taking the session as a whole. While net declines ranged down to 8½ points, very few were beyond fractional limits.

On the up side net gains extended to 6 points, with many in the fractional class. The railroads and oils closed near their opening prices.

The call money rate rose to 4½ per cent all day, with a few loans made outside the stock exchange at 4¾. Various unimportant incidents of the day's news were based upon bearish arguments, such as the recent price of steel bars, disturbances in China and fighting in Mexico, and disappointment was expressed over the information from Philadelphia that only 1,000,000 shares had been transacted at the annual meeting of the directors of the Lehigh Valley Railroad.

Lehigh stock maintained its high level, but many interested merely in the news had hoped for fireworks. This hope was not realized, with the result that possibly a fight for control of Lehigh would stimulate other rail shares.

As far as can be learned both the New York Central and the Delaware & Hudson interests are satisfied with their positions and are not disposed to force the issue.

The motor shares, as a group, were also, most of them closing fractionally higher, after withstanding early selling in a much more impressive manner than that displayed by some of the other industrials. The steels also moved within a comparatively narrow range and closed little changed.

Some of the stocks which failed to receive substantial support to carry them back from their recent plunges, and which closed well below their opening prices, were Baldwin Locomotive, South Porto Rican Sugar, Standard Soaps, Commercial Solvents, B. Loos-Wiles American Can, American Smelting, American Woolen and Eastern Kodak.

Stocks which stood up well and finished with a gain well off the fraction classed as Yellow Truck preferred. In them there was strong buying movement; Allis-Chalmers, Woolworth, Vick Chemical, Macy-Maytag, Missouri Pacific, North American, Remington, Smith, Liggett & Myers, Gothic House, General Railway Signal, Continental Can, Colgate-Palmolive, Baltimore & Ohio, American Bank Note, and Gulf, Mobile & Northern.

Movements in foreign exchanges attracted little interest. Sterling and French francs were steady, and lire gained about 2 points but Norwegian rates developed weakness in London and were marked down 7 points here. Pesetas dropped back to around the 16-cent level, closing 19 points off. Chinese exchanges also eased somewhat.

OIL QUOTATIONS.

New York, Jan. 18 (By A. P.)—Crude oil price, $54. Runs, 13,440; average runs, 50,578. Shipments, 79,637; average shipments, 61,782.

NEW YORK COTTON.

New York, Jan. 18 (By A. P.)—Slight opening decline in the cotton market, but this was followed by a general firmness, prices making new high ground for the movement in late trading. March sold off 1½ points to 13.46, while 19 points net higher and 172 points above the low level of early last month, and closed at 13.46. The general market closed weak, at net advances of 13 to 17 points.

The market opened steady at a decline of 3 to 7 points, active positions quickly moving to 14 to 15½ points net lower under overnight selling orders which included some Southern hedging as well as further realizations or liquidations.

These early offerings were soon absorbed. Buying was heavy July by brokers who were supplied to them by covering or rebuying contracts sold out late last week, helped the general tone of the market. Early favorable reports from the cotton good time and talk of probably light ginning returns for the period prior to January 18, were reflected in the market advance which followed. January sold up from 13.16 to 13.40 and May from 13.42 to 13.47, net advances of about 12 to 22 points. The net advances of about 12 to 22 points of the market.

The close was slightly off from the best under realization.

Interests with Southwestern connections were gratified with buying here during the afternoon, and after the first half hour, very little Southern selling was recorded.

Private cables from Liverpool said early hedge selling there had been absorbed by trade calling, while import and export markets were reported to be good.

In the Southwest, probably increased doubt as to the saving of late cotton, although some of the reports reaching here seem to indicate that cotton has come very close to the government's estimate of the crop for that State.

Exports today, 9,133, marking 6,462,904 total. Total port receipts, 76,193. United States port stocks, 2,904,631.

Anaconda Copper Mining Company

In addition to being the world's largest producer of copper and silver, the Anaconda Copper Mining Co. is the country's leading refiner of copper. A direct outlet for its products through the control of a fabricating company, this fabricating subsidiary, the American Brass Co., was acquired in 1922 and a controlling interest in the Copper Co. was secured in the following year.

Earnings since 1918 have reflected the weakness of the entire copper industry, but since 1921, when operations were in a net loss of little over $17,000,000, the decline in production has been apparent. In 1923 net income totaled $17,540,532, whereas the report for 1924 indicated a net profit of $6,192,215. These profits were split in 1925 and $24 per share in 1926.

At the end of 1925 the company's current assets exceeded its current liabilities by approximately $96,000,000.

This figure, representing a net working capital of $100,000,000, is considerably larger than the $90,000,000 available at the end of 1924.

Dividends payments were made in every year from 1910 to 1920, inclusive. After a lapse of two years, payments were resumed in 1923 and were again suspended in February, 1924. In December, 1925, a 75-cent dividend payment was declared and at present $3 per share per year is being paid.

THE STORY SO FAR.
Mrs. Pullen is convinced that a fat man, who has been appearing at her door, is responsible for mysterious gifts of a motor car, a fur coat, a Chinese lacquered chest, and other articles which have appeared within a week at the Pullen home. The actress to whom Mrs. Pullen is a sight, may be a very fat woman, dressed in a married manner. Julia secretly shows her father the gifts he has received, but he tells him she gave them to her. The father is much shaken by her refusal. The girl cries, and throws herself in a corner.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER XVII.
MRS. PULLEN, equipped for going outdoors, entered the room at the moment that Julia produced her pocket handkerchief and applied it to her eyes.

"Now what?" inquired Mrs. Pullen, briskly.

Her quick eye took in the details of the tableau before her—Pullen, much depressed, in his arm chair, and Julia beside him weeping. In almost the same glance she detected the sparkle of the diamond in the corner.

Possessing herself of the ring, she examined it in rapid appraisal.

"Julia Pullen, where are you gone and what have you done?" she demanded. "Why didn't you tell me?"

The girl put her hands before her face and shook her head.

"Fred tell me this instant what it's all about," pursued Mrs. Pullen.

"I don't know," he answered, mournfully.

The mother looked from the girl to the man, and back again.

"Julia," she said, her voice softening, "there came a smothered voice from beneath the girl's handkerchief.

Mrs. Pullen took her daughter's wrist and drew her to the couch, over whose ruined upholstery she had tossed a "coverlet."

"Now, Julia," she continued, seating herself on the hummock surface, and pulling the girl close to her, "you don't have to be afraid to tell mamma. Why did you throw the ring in the corner?"

Julia still was sobbing. "Because papa felt so bad when—I wouldn't tell him who I was engaged to."

"Isn't that just like a man?" appealed Mrs. Pullen. "They're big babies, every one of them! Why should you tell him if you don't want to?"

The girl put her hands before her face, and shook her head.

"It's Sam Carille!"

"No."

"The last—it isn't—glad light was in Mrs. Pullen's eye—the stout gentleman? You haven't become acquainted with him, have you, dear?"

"No." Julia's negative was emphatic and clear.

"Then I'm sure I don't know who it could be." The mother took Julia's hand coaxingly. "You haven't been meeting any man secretly, have you?"

"Julia, be silent."

"Have you?"

Still her daughter did not answer. "You have! You have then, Julia Pullen?" She lifted the ring to look at it again. "I'll give it back to you for you to do. You take this ring right straight back!" Turning the stone so the light flashed from it, she added: "It's a nice ring, though."

Mrs. Pullen had lowered her handkerchief from her eyes, and spoke now with her head turned away. "Mama, I won't get married if you don't want me to."

Her presence was Pullen had been watching his wife and daughter gloomily at first. Gradually, however, his face cleared, and presently he chuckled.

Mr. and Mrs. Pullen looked up in astonishment.

With a broad grin he came across the room, and placing his forefinger under his daughter's chin, he tilted up her head.

"Julia," said he, "you're a fraud!"

"Why, papa," she gasped.

"Fred!" exclaimed Mrs. Pullen.

He continued, holding the unwilling Julia firmly, "I'll tell you about it. We're—not—in the eye," he said, looking in the eye. "His eyes were twinkling and his face was suffused with mirth. "I haven't lived in the house since you've been here nine months without getting acquainted with you Julia—just a little bit."

"Did you borrow that ring?" he asked again.

The girl reddened appealingly, "Oh, no, papa, I didn't borrow your wife's ring. On earth are you talking about?"

"I'm talking about Julia," he said gravely. "She hasn't engaged to anybody. That's ring's bokum. Where's your ring?"

Julia struggled to arise but he detained her with his hand upon her forehead.

"Did you borrow the ring?" he asked again.

"No, I didn't." She drew a deep breath as if gathering herself together. "I'll tell you about it."

"I'll show you," said Mrs. Pullen. "I'm about to divorce you."

"Do you remember when I came home Saturday, and the new automobile had just been delivered?" Julia asked, her heart thumping. "I was terribly excited, and she hadn't looked in the mail box. Wait a minute."

She left her parents and ran upstairs. In a moment she was back with a small white box in her hand.

MODISH MITZI

Mitzi has been reading about the modes and manners of two centuries ago. A certain French woman, it is reported, appeared upon the streets clad in 16 ounces of clothing. It could be done today unless Mitzi thinks about how brief underwear can be. Her negligee of two-color georgette has an ostrich collar weighing in all very little.

Mr. Work's Pointer On Auction Bridge

THE pointer for today is:

With but one whipping card of the suit originally led at No Trump, Declarer usually should hold that card until the third round if possible.

The doctrine of the hold-up at No Trump is one of those rudimentary and yet important of the many art the Declarer must understand in order successfully to manage the twenty-six cards he is called upon to play.

The adversary who has the lead will open his forces in the hope of establishing it and winning enough tricks to save game; the object of Declarer's hold-up is to block the suit after it is established and kill what would otherwise be out or minor adverse returns. The opportunity to do this blocking takes place when the partner of the original leader has no more of the suit, and the original leader can be kept from winning a trick and getting in the lead to finish his winner. Declarer can bring about this condition by holding up his winning card of the adverse suit until the third round of it.

Of course the hold-up should be made only when it does not endanger the chance of winning that one trick of the adverse suit. With Ace-x-x either in Dummy or Closed Hand, Declarer may be sure of winning either of the first three tricks with King-x-x in Closed Hand when the Ace is played. The hand when the Ace is held in the Dummy is not so strong, but Declarer may be sure of either the second or third trick at his option. But when the holding is King-x-x, Dummy having no support in the suit, and the Third Hand does not play the Ace, the best chance is to hold up the King with the King, or the King surely would be lost; so the advice in today's pointer applies generally to the Ace-x-x suits.

The following No Trump hand will illustrate:

West would lead the Five of Clubs and East would play the Queen. It will be noticed that should Declarer fail to play and should he take the first or second Club trick, he will be left with the Ace Diamond—would be able to return his partner's suit, which would save game; but if the Declarer holds up his Ace of Clubs until the third round, East would not have a club and Declarer would make double.

PATROLMAN BUSCH MURDER TRIAL GETS OFF TO FAST START

Seven Witnesses Testify as Four Accused of Shooting Fight Charges.

BULLET-RIDDLED COATS ARE EXHIBITED IN COURT

Detective and Defense Attorney Clash When Blood Stain Is Shown.

The four men accused of the murder of Patrolman Leo W. E. Busch began their fight for acquittal yesterday in Criminal Court, No. 2. The jury finally was selected after four days of tedious wrangling and the trial got off to a speed start. Seven witnesses were examined.

Samuel Marino, 19 years old, Nicholas L. Lefebvre, 24; John F. McCabe, 21, and John Proctor, 18, comprise the accused quartet. Busch was wounded mortally in a gun battle with four highwaymen September 26, near Grant circle. The men had two days after Garfield hospital.

Patrolman Frank L. Ach was wounded in the battle and is the outstanding witness for the government. The bullet-riddled coats of the patrolmen and the bullets were produced as evidence yesterday.

Jury Ready at 10:45 A. M.

The jury was completed at 10:45 a. m. and the oaths administered. The following comprise the jury:

Alfred T. Walker, 58 years old, a delivery clerk, 1009 H street northwest; James M. O'Farrell, 54, a station wagon driver, 3525 O street northwest; John K. Lerch, 43, a painter, 684 Wolf street northwest; Carl Wolf, 51, clothing salesman, 32 Todd place northeast; J. C. Leathem, 56, a superintendent, printing plant, Grant circle; Harry J. Slye, 48, an undertaker, 6435 Eighth street northwest.

O'Shea Opens Defense.

Assistant District Attorney George Horning Jr., presented the government's case after the jury was sworn. The case, he said, would be supported by evidence, and, if proved beyond a reasonable doubt, "a proper verdict at the proper time" would be adopted.

Attorney James A. O'Shea, counsel for McCabe, was the defense attorney to make an opening statement. He depicted McCabe as "a victim of the most unfeeling circumstances that ever befell a man." He asserted that McCabe must have met the three other defendants earlier on the night of the murder; that he was very drunk and in search of more liquor and was no party to an agreement.

Attorney Horning described the events leading up to the slaying. He related that Busch and Ach had received a "call-out" for four highwaymen who had been a patrol in U Street northwest, when they confronted four men a short time later whose appearance conformed to the descriptions in the "look-out" and how the blinding of pliers fit in with the men who were walking near Grant circle in search of a disabled automobile.

Have Met Many Times.

Detective Edward Kelly, of headquarters, and O'Shea, who were in trials of innumerable criminal cases, clashed momentarily when the coat of the dead patrolman was submitted for the defense ruling. Kelly was asked to identify the coat and turned a sleeve inside out, revealing bloodstains. O'Shea vehemently objected, declaring:

"He's trying to prejudice the minds of the jury, your honor."

Other witnesses determined were:

Follesden, Edward Wall, Raymond F. Harper, Clarence Robinson, Inspector Charles A. Evans, who identified the body of Busch and the coat; Detective Fred Johnson, police reporter, expert; and Dr. Joseph D. Rogers, deputy coroner, who told of the autopsy he performed on the body.

Supper to Benefit Church at Bethesda

An open supper for the benefit of Our Lady of Lourdes Catholic church, of Bethesda, Md., will be given on Friday evening from 6 to 9 o'clock. The supper is one of a series of like events held for the benefit of the church.

The mass was offered for the first time in the Church of Our Lady of Lourdes, December 15, 1926.

The new church is located on Watson avenue between Wisconsin avenue and Peabody street. A chapel has been fitted up temporarily. Mrs. M. Marion and Miss Elizabeth Waters are in charge of the organization to be given on Friday evening.

Receiver Appointed On Building Contract

John P. Richter, an attorney, was appointed receiver yesterday by Justice Louis L. Lasker, presiding justice of the construction court at Queens and Legion streets northwest, which was begun by William L. Martin, Jr., contractor, of Alexandria, Va.

The appointment for the appointment of a receiver was made by the Washington Concrete Products Corporation of America, one of Martin's creditors, which claimed that Martin had left the city without finishing his work. Attorney Henry A. Schwinnhardt appeared for the corporation.

$5,000 Verdict Given In Trolley Accident

The Capital Traction Co. was assessed $5,000 damages yesterday by a jury in circuit court in favor of Robert M. Lyon, a minor, of Takoma Park, whose arm plunged through a car window June 1, 1925, on Fourteenth street between Jefferson and Kennedy streets northwest.

Through Attorneys Lambert, Yeaman and Canfield the plaintiff said that he was at the front of the car passing to allow the trolley to be purchased. According to the plea of the company, Lyon should have seized a strap and prevented injury to himself.

Damages Suit Dismissed.

William A. Smithson, who sued the Pennsylvania Railroad Co. for $5,000 damages for alleged personal injuries resulting from the alleged collision between his car and a freight car, was riding at Bowes, Md., and a freight car on April 24, 1925, dismissed his suit yesterday in circuit court through his counsel, Thomas M. Baker.

Commission to Hear Rezoning Proposals

Proposed rezoning of a tract at the intersection of Reservoir and Ridge roads northwest, for the purpose of establishing a large public swimming pool, will be discussed at a public hearing before the zoning commission in the board room of the District Building today, beginning at 10 a. m. The property involved is now residential area. It is proposed to make it commercial. The proposed zoning rules to be adopted at the hearing are the increase of permitted building height at Thirteenth and F streets northwest, where the S. G. Evans Sons Co. will erect a new store building, changing residential to residential in the unincorporated area part of New Hampshire avenue northwest in the vicinity of Dupont circle.

Fritz Reiner Welcomed AS LEADER OF SYMPHONY

Ovation to Guest is Shared With Players in Philadelphia Orchestra.

HEADS CINCINNATI GROUP

Washington welcomed to its musical heart yesterday a guest conductor of the famous Philadelphia Symphony orchestra in Fritz Reiner, the noted conductor of the Cincinnati Symphony orchestra, in a concert at the new auditorium. The concert was under local direction of the T. Arthur Smith concert bureau.

The perfect musicianship of the orchestra was exhibited in the way it responded to the energetic baton of Reiner, a master of all music. Quite different from that of the regular conductor, Leopold Stokowski, but nevertheless he managed to get the same magnificent effects and golden ensemble. The music lover will come to expect from the Philadelphia symphony.

The audience was enthusiastic over his methods and the ovation at the conclusion of the lovely Brahms symphony No. 4 in B major, with its beautiful adagio movement was unusually long for a Washington audience.

Reiner did not share his laurels with the orchestra, but made a gesture in rise to accept the applause with him.

The program itself was well chosen.

It began with the Weber overture, "Oberon," a favorite with any audience, very well played by yesterday's musicians.

The Beethoven symphony No. 4 in B major in four movements was the high point of the program. Each movement of this classic of the greatest masters whose centenary is being observed all over the world this year, had a special charm of its own.

Its renowned adagio with its smooth flowing movement was particularly under the skillful guidance of Reiner, who created a musical memory certain to be cherished.

The third movement came the minute dictated by generations of the light hearted a memorable tone poem of terpsichore—and the whole concluding with the fourth movement.

At the intermission Debussy's "La Mer," three symphonic sketches, occupied the attention of the orchestra with adequate effects. The color, the sonority, the mystery that is Debussy's all was there.

To wind up a perfect afternoon of music the orchestra played under the leadership of Reiner's baton Wagner's "Der Ring des Nibelungen," from act 3, "Die Meistersinger."

There was no doubt but that the leader was a devotee of Wagner, for he interpreted the score with a depth of understanding that proved it beyond all gainsaying.
